► Transportation companies group TCompanies introduced Photo Equipment Interchange Receipt (PEIR), a system designed to accurately assign costs based on responsibility for damaged shipping containers. The solution guides personnel at inspection points or truck drivers in the field through the inspection process with a step-by-step set of prompts. The PEIR automated identification process then verifies the equipment numbers, and the solution provides a summary for the user to review and revise if necessary. Within minutes, the entire report is available through a blockchain-enabled web app, allowing authorized users to trace the history and images associated with the equipment.
